

Following fashions

Consumer magazines and websites across the UK are busily predicting 'must have' products for Christmas 2015 with features covering everything from family gifts to decorating the home for a truly festive feel.

Of course, the majority of companies which exhibited at Christmas & Gift in January 2015 paved the way for many of these new fashion trends and will see their products and colour schemes highlighted in their full glory. Now the industry is looking ahead and planning the launch of great new ranges for the 2016 Christmas season.

However, don't be fooled into thinking the show is just about Christmas. Many companies exhibiting will be bringing fabulous year-round ranges for the home and garden including new trends in furniture, accessories and gifts. The show has every notable date covered including Valentines, Easter, Halloween, birthdays and even wedding accessories.

Christmas stories

Ensuring that they have catered to every taste from en-trend contemporary designs in the latest fashionable shades to time-honoured traditional colours, Premier Decorations' highly experienced designers have created a unique range of 2016 Christmas Stories with collections of top quality products chosen specifically to complement each other.

John Athwal, Premier Decorations managing director, comments: "We are really excited about Harrogate Christmas & Gift as we have so many fabulous new collections to offer our customers in 2016. UK consumers have very different tastes to those in Europe and our designers have taken this on board to create unique products with them specifically in mind."

"Also, our highly experienced team of buyers travel the world seeking unique products and I have to say that this year they have exceeded all expectations. They are currently signing off some totally innovative ideas which we will be launching exclusively to the UK market at Harrogate."
